A Dead Stomach
Of What Use Is It?
Thousands of people throughout America are taking the slow death treatment daily. They are murdering their own stomach, the best friend they have, and in their sublime ignorance they think they are putting aside the laws of nature.
This is no sensational statement; it is a startling fact, the truth of which any honorable physician will not deny. These thousands of people are swallowing daily huge quantities of pills and other strong digesters, made especially to digest the food in the stomach without any aid at all from the digestive membrane of the stomach.
Milk-mag stomach tablets relieve distressed stomach in five minutes; they do more. Taken regularly for a few weeks, they build up the run down stomach and make it strong enough to digest its own food. Then indigestion, belching, sour stomach and headache will go.
Milk-mag stomach tablets are sold by druggists everywhere and by O'Brien's Drug Store, who guarantee them.
Thrift Stamps bought for yourself or your children cultivate the right spirit.

D. C. BOY TELLS OF DESPERATE BATTLE
Corporal Robert Emmett Purcell, a Washington boy and a graduate of Georgetown University Law School, received eight flesh wounds in the right shoulder while participating in the American drive which began on the 26th of September and lasted four consecutive days, according to a letter received by his father, James L. Purcell, 16 T street northwest, today.
Purcell, who is thirty-two years old, graduated from the Georgetown University Law School in 1911 and has been practicing law in Milot City, Mont. He enlisted in the army in September, 1917, and was ordered to France early in July.
Wounded in Shoulder.
His letter follows:
Dear Mother and Father:
I have been wounded, but very slightly. It is only a flesh wound on top of the right shoulder.
Now I will tell you how it happened. We started the drive on the 26th of September. The first battalion consisted of a certain number of companies of our regiment, including our company, which was picked to lead the assault over the top. I was in the first wave of my platoon.
Bright and early in the morning on the 26th, after a barrage, we went over the top. The guns had played havoc with the German trenches so we met with practically no resistance except from snipers and machine gunners concealed in the woods. The undergrowth and woods were so thick that before an hour had passed our platoon was milling around like lost sheep. However, about noon we met again and continued the drive through more woods and over open grounds. The Germans were chased out of their dugouts and either captured or killed.
Went Too Fast.
The first day we went so fast that we got ahead of our troops on the flank. Consequently we had to halt. Before doing so our company met some German machine guns in the fringe of an orchard.
I was sent ahead with two men to locate the Germans on the right and had not gone fifty yards when I ran right into their fire and only saved myself by going down flat. However, I was able to locate their fire and we opened up with the result that the Germans were driven out. We pursued them and ran into a bunch of fifteen, two of whom were killed before they got away. The second day we started forward, but during the night the Germans had brought up many more machine guns and the resistance was so great that we were compelled to dig in order to hold our own.
During the night the Germans had placed their heavy artillery in position. The division on our right was in great difficulty, having been com-

GERMAN ARMIES NOW FACING RUIN
LONDON, Nov. 8.—The Times' war correspondent says:
"The magnitude of the victory of last week-end becomes every day more apparent. For a month or more the enemy has been retreating on to the line of the Meuse, but now he has reached the last stage of his journey. The surest sign of our victory is that his last stage has been more rapidly got through than his first.
"A month ago it seemed possible that the Germans in France might be completely enveloped from the east and west. It was then that General Ludendorff threw up the sponge. Lately this danger receded, and Ludendorff, who had set the peace negotiations in action, drew back because he then thought the German armies could be extricated without disaster.
"Now the prospect for the German armies has darkened again. Whereas a week ago most people would have prophesied that the Germans would escape without irretrievable disaster, now ruin again stares them in the face. What we are witnessing now is the destruction of the system of railway communications which tempted the enemy into Belgium. The net result of recent operations is, that of all these railway lines only the one down the valley is working properly. Two are lost, and of the remainder the one through the Meuse valley is threatened and the other Metz railway, is working in connection with a different base, so that the east and west wings of the German armies are now separated.
RUSS NEED U. S. GOODS
Defeat of Germany will not prevent her from gaining an economic stranglehold on Russia unless the allies take immediate steps to flood southern and northern Russia and Siberia with commodities most needed by the Russian people.
This warning was issued here today by Dr. Joseph M. Goldstein, professor of political economy at the University of Moscow and one of Russia's leading commercial authorities.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE
Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers.
If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste get four ounces of Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.
Tad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

pelled to retire three times during the day. On the third day the right division came up again and went ahead. Another regiment and a machine gun regiment, took over our front and pushed ahead about a mile where they were held up. It was all very hard fighting through thick undergrowth and up and down hills where the Huns had their machine guns hidden in small trenches.
Foe Fought Hard.
We went up and proceeded about 600 yards, but had to fall back again on account of concentrated fire of the Huns. Word was sent to the artillery to come to our assistance, but something was wrong for they failed to do so. Meanwhile the Huns had located us and dropped shell after shell in our ranks, killing a number of our men. Our objective was a town two and one-half miles in our immediate front and we had been given four days to get to the time we started the drive to capture it. It was now the fourth day and we had to do something. To gain our objective, we had to pass through thick undergrowth in our front about fifty yards and then over the hills and down gullies, all of which was covered by German machine guns, snipers and artillery fire.
About 4 o'clock the machine gun was formed in skirmish line and the order was given to take the town. We went forward in three waves. When we deployed out of the growth we were in plain view of the Huns, who were entrenched on the hills on our flanks and front. Of course, the firing was intense.
But we pushed on and gained the first hill, all kinds of shells, shrapnel and gas was thrown into us. We had no artillery at all. Our boys were falling right and left, but we had the Huns on the run. The troops on our right failed to get to the hill and consequently we were met with enfilade fire.
Captured Machine Gun.
As I was standing up shooting something hit me on the right shoulder. It felt like a sledge hammer. Down I went, but got up again, and made for a trench, where I ducked out of sight. Just before being wounded another fellow and myself had captured a Hun machine gun, and turning it around had fired into the retreating Germans.
However, after we had fired about twenty-five rounds the gun jammed and we abandoned it. In the meanwhile our colonel, major and captain had all been wounded, as were also all the lieutenants of my company, with the exception of one, who commanded my platoon. We gained our objectives. We stayed there alright, and upon being relieved in the morning our battalion moved back and I went and had my wound dressed.
When I went into battle, mother, dear, I followed your advice and placed myself under God's protection, and it was then that I ch sure, which saved me from being more seriously hurt.

TURN ON GAS, HAS STROKE, THEN DIES
What is reported today by Deputy Coroner E. W. Titus as being one of the most unusual deaths in the recent police history of Washington occurred yesterday at 149 Adams street northwest.
Alfred A. Mullin, head of a furniture department in one of the local stores, had suffered a paralytic stroke two years ago and had been in continual dread of a repetition of the stroke. During Mrs. Mullin's absence yesterday afternoon Mullin entered the kitchen to light the gas stove. He turned on the gas and just before he applied the match he dropped to the floor, a victim of paralysis.
The room immediately filled with gas. A neighbor, calling later, smelled gas coming from the kitchen and phoned for the police. Mullin was removed to the Emergency Hospital but died in the ambulance on the way.
Mullin, who was fifty-one years old, leaves a wife and three children.

When the jail was emptied of its last offender, and the car was idle for months the city fathers decided to sell. The county jail also suffered a similar complaint, and Sheriff Swanson has released the last of his prisoners and for the first time in years the county jail is now unoccupied.

BLACK MARIA NOW DELIVERY TRUCK
SALINA, Kan., Nov. 8.—The "black maria" purchased by the police department some time ago, has been sold to a local grocer for a delivery truck owing to "business" falling off in the police department.
When the machine was purchased the city had need for a car to haul men and women from police court to the jail. Since then morality has been on the increase and crime on the decrease. When the jail was emptied of its last offender, and the car was idle for months the city fathers decided to sell. The county jail also suffered a similar complaint, and Sheriff Swanson has released the last of his prisoners and for the first time in years the county jail is now unoccupied.

What is reported today by Deputy Coroner E. W. Titus as being one of the most unusual deaths in the recent police history of Washington occurred yesterday at 149 Adams street northwest.
Alfred A. Mullin, head of a furniture department in one of the local stores, had suffered a paralytic stroke two years ago and had been in continual dread of a repetition of the stroke. During Mrs. Mullin's absence yesterday afternoon Mullin entered the kitchen to light the gas stove. He turned on the gas and just before he applied the match he dropped to the floor, a victim of paralysis.
The room immediately filled with gas. A neighbor, calling later, smelled gas coming from the kitchen and phoned for the police. Mullin was removed to the Emergency Hospital but died in the ambulance on the way.
